

Building upon the Foundations Ethics workshop, this second workshop in the SABPP series deals with how HR practitioners should lead ethics within their organisation. Organisational ethics is based on sound organisational values and a healthy culture. An ethical culture is one of the governance outcomes contained in the King IV Code of Corporate Governance. The role of the HR leader and the HR function in the organisation in supporting and driving ethical behaviour is critical.

Course Overview:

- To understand how organisational ethics contribute or detract from organisational success.
- To understand how ethics governance fits into corporate governance.
- To understand how HR practitioners can drive and support organisational ethics.
- Practical exercise – Setting the Tone.
- Post-workshop assignment.

All SABPP registered HR practitioners are required to attend Ethics Workshops and must have attended the Ethics Foundation Workshop before attending the HR and Organisational Ethics Workshop.

The HR and Organisational Ethics Workshop gives 5 CPD Points plus 2 points if the post-workshop assignment is submitted and approved.
